MORE EVIDENCE AGAINST MILLER. CIRCUMSTANCES APPARENTLY CONNECTING

HIM WITH MANY INCENDIARY FIRES. Police Captain Eason, who has investigated the circumstances connected with the incendiary fires in the downtown part of the city, and the relations therewith of Hugh C. Miller, who was arrested this week, presented a full report to Superintendent Campbell yes-terday. It did not serve, however, to cast much light upon the matter and no positive evidence has been se cured to connect Miller with other fires than the one

In his report Captain Eason repeated the account of the arrest of Miller and his confession of starting the are at No. 133 Bridge st. and of stuffing the are-alarm box in the neighborhood, and added: "Since his arrest with the plaintiff's station at Greenwood. I and my detectives have been trying to place the esponsibility as to the cause of numerous incendiary fires that have occurred during the last few months in this and adjacent precincts. In the cases following give facts and submit them to you to judge who is the guilty party in all the cases."

He then shows that Miller was seen in the vicinity of No. 146 High-st, after it was fired on January 14; that he was in No. 131 Sands-st. shortly before the fire there on January 21, when six lives were lost, he was there when the alarm was given, and later walking lame said that he fell over some hose; that he purchased some oil through a boy on March and floor of the three-story chair factory of James 14. Just as he did on the night of the dre he confesses starting on March 21, and the boy identifies him as large tenement-houses surround the building and much the person he gave the bottle of oil to.

The report also says that Miller gave the alarm for the fire at No. 172 Prospect-st. on January 29. January 22 the fire-slarm box at Prospect and Bridge sts. was found plurged the same as it was on the night before Miller's arrest, and on January 30 a fire occurred at No. 121 Washington-st., and a young man ng Miller was seen coming out of the cellar At the fires in the Brooklyn Institute on June 27, July 8 and September 12 Miller was present, and at the last me he was seen near the place with his eyebrows and face scorelied, and said he had been at the Institute face scorcied, and said he had been at the Institute trying to save property. He was also present at other small fires, making fourteen in all.

Captain Eason concludes: "I am convinced that all the fares have been done by the same person and with no regard whatever as to what loss of life or property would occur, a canning, deliberate and premeditated design on his part."

Miller was a witness at the inquest in the fatal fire near his home in sands st., and testified that he saved a woman and two children from the flames. He has been constant in his presence at fires and has given advice to firemen. His friends say he is insane on the subject of fires.

MRS. EVANS DOESN'T LIKE MRS. BRADLEY. THE SAYS SHE TOLD FALSEHOODS AND HER TESTIMONY WAS WORTHLESS.

William H. Wilder, named as the executor of the estate of Myra Clark Games by her will of January 5, 1885, again took the stand yesterday in the Surregate's Court. He explained the second indictment found against him for forgery in Louisiana, and told how it was dismissed. He said he was not guilty of

Marie P. Evans, the claimant under the holographic will of January 8, testified that on Jan uary 9, 1885, she went to Mrs. Gaines's house, as she heard Mrs. Gaines was dving. The doors were open Mrs. Gaines was in the front room upstairs and Wilder and Christmas were in the rear room. When the latter aw her he put his arm across the door and would She asked to be allowed simply to go in and let Mrs. Gaines see that she had come to goodbye. He told her she could not, and she called him "an ungrateful wretch."

A few days after Mrs. Gaines's death she met Mrs. Bradley, who asked her if she was going to probate the holographic will. She told her she might do and Mrs. Bradley said "Don't drag me into the affair. Come to my house. I've something to tell She went and Mrs. Bradley demanded $5,000 to make a statement about the facts of the signing of the holographic will. This demand she refused to comply with. After Mrs. Bradley had testified in New-Orleans, she asked witness "If I make you restitution, will you promise not to use it until I get my money and the house that have been promised me !" The witness told her she had sworn to so many falsehoods that her testimony was worthless. Letters written by Mrs. Gaines to Mrs. Evans were put in evidence to show that their relations were intimate

John H. Russell testified that Mrs. Gaines had Johp N. Russell testified that Mrs. Gaines had often said that she meant to provide for Mrs. Evans. Mrs. Ohve M. Hechtman said that she saw the holographic will before Mrs. Gaines's death, and she identified it as being in her handwrifing. Mrs. Hochtman was a spiritualist and had had communication with Mrs. Gaines since her death, but had heard nothing from her about the will. Mrs. Gaines had expressed the wish to the witness that her work should be carried on by Mrs. Evans.

The case was adjourned until Monday, when some expert testimony will be introduced and then the case will go over to allow time for the submission of briefs. There will be no arguments.

The officers of the company said that they would be prepared to make the matter public to-morrow. The company now has first mertzage bonds for $1,200,000 and these will be paid of by the new issue. It was proposed to increase the capital from $6,000,000 to $16,000,000 but the bond issue has been decided upon

AN ILL-USED WIFE AT ELEVEN YEARS OLD. A pitiful case of infantile marriage came to light in the Adams Street Police Court yesterday. An Italian girl, named Francesca Carbona, eleven years old, was found wandering in the vicinity of Prospect Park by a policeman on Wednesday. She was turned over to the Children's Society. In court vesterday, in broken Italian and through an interpreter, her story was heard. Her father has been in this country : ent for her, and she found a stepmother to welcom

Her father told her, she said, that he had a husband picked out for her, and if she didn't like him he would shoot her through the heart. Four months ago she was married to Giovanni Largiglio by the Rev. Pietro Saponara, of the Church of Cur Latty of Mount Carmel, Saponara, of the Crurch of Cur Lady or Month Carmen, in the Eastern District, who was told that she was twenty. Her husband begun to abuse her, she asserts, and she threatened to run away. He kicked and chibbed her, and on Tuesday he lied her to a bedpost and left her with nothing to eat from noon to midnight. On Wednesday she ran away and wandered along the Eastern Parkway. On her body are bruises, and she wore a wedding ring. This she pulled off in court and threw mon the foor, stamping apon it. The girl was remanded to the care of the society until the husband and father can be found.

MR. BLAKELOCK SENT TO AN ASYLUM. Ralph A. Blakelock, the demented artist, of No 118 Milton-st., who was turned out of St. Catherine's Hospital on Wednesday night, where he had been removed, was yesterday taken to the Flatbush Insanc Asylum. The treatment the patient received at the institution has caused indignation among his numerou friends. The hospital is largely supported by private contributions and also draws liberally from the public funds. After being turned from the institution, an officer of the Sixth Precinct found him wandering about the streets and took him to the police station, when he was turned over to the Greenpoint police.

Losses from bad debts are necessarily incidental to the prevalent method of conducting a custom tailoring business. The sufferers, however, are not the proprietors, but their prompt paying customers.

Our increasing trade with former wearers of custom clothes proves that many men are tired of paying other people's debts, and are testing the merits of the best ready made.

We are not so silly as to offer such men the kind of Suits or Overcoats that can be put together and sold for ten or twelve dollars. But for twenty or thirty dollars we can easily match the better class of custom shops in fabric, fit and finish. We would be ashamed to turn out such garments as the cheap tailors produce.
